

Society

Mina Guli: Athlete, educator, water-saving wonder woman

Beijing-based Australian Mina Guli is educating students around China about the severity of the global water crisis and raising awareness by completing superhuman challenges.

read more

Australia's mosquito men

An international team of scientists led by Professor Scott O'Neill of Monash University has developed a natural method to reduce the spread of dengue fever across the tropics. He and fellow Australian ...

read more

A drop in the bucket

Twenty years ago, Rhett Butler saw many children in developing regions drinking polluted water. As a result, he developed a unique solution that led to the formation of Skyjuice, an organisation that ...

read more

Advocating for Australia's youth

Meet Jan Owen, chief executive of the Foundation for Young Australians (FYA) and tireless campaigner for Australia's young people. Jan's work with FYA is gaining international interest because of her ...

read more

Yanti Turang

Yanti Turang is the eternal optimist but only after surviving Hurricane Katrina in New Orleans did she decide to help others help themselves. Founding LearnToLive, a New Orleans-based humanitarian org ...

read more

Yassmin Abdel-Magied

Yassmin Abdel-Magied is leading by example in her drive to encourage women into engineering and to broaden awareness of Australian Muslims. With a love of cars and motorsports and a passion for social ...

read more

Viv Benjamin

Viv Benjamin believes history shapes us but we shape the future. Reading her background it's clear where her fighting spirit, determination to right injustices and ambition come from. From fundraisin ...

read more

Samah Hadid

Samah Hadid is a determined campaigner for the rights of women and a more equitable world. Proud to be defined by her Muslim heritage, Samah has dedicated most of her life to campaigning for human rig ...

read more

Nishan David

Son of Sri Lankan migrant parents, Nishan David's upbringing informed his desire to empower communities. This vision combined with a passion for innovative social enterprise led to the founding of eth ...

read more